Wednesday, March 10, 2010

Louisiana Libraries: Advocacy on the Front Lines

10:00 am – 3:30 pm

Capitol Room

Sponsors: LLA, Academic Section, Public Section, LASL Section and Trustee Section

The accelerated pace of societal change, economic problems and shifting political winds pose a threat to the long term stability in libraries of all sizes and types. The need for advocacy has never been greater. Attendees at this full day pre-conference co-sponsored by the academic, public, school, and trustee sections will learn from speakers from ALA about national initiatives and receive new insights into ways advocacy can work at the grass roots level. Diane Brown, Deputy State Librarian, will facilitate a panel comprised of Shatiqua Mosby-Wilson, SUNO; Vivian McCain, Lincoln Parish Library; Cathy Seal, East Baton Rouge Parish School System; and Susan Hamilton, Trustee, Lafayette Parish Library who will discuss successful initiatives in their libraries.

Keynote Speaker: ALA President Camila Alire.

Cultivating Civic Engagement with Gov Info Mashups

11:00 am – 11:45 am

Governor Room

Technological innovations are driving a historical transformation of civic engagement and changing both politics and the documentation that results. President Obama's promise to have a more transparent and open government by using web technology is evident in the creation of Data.gov, where government data is free for the taking and re-mixing. Several organizations, such as The Sunlight Foundation and its Sunlight Labs, have taken advantage of social media tools and the increasing accessibility of government data online by creating APIs and Mashups to engage, educate, and empower citizens. In this presentation, the speaker will discuss some of these "gov info mashups" and how librarians can use and create mashups with a more local Louisiana focus, in order to inform and engage our patrons. Speaker: Rebecca Blakeley, Head of Government Documents, McNeese State University.

Track: Digital Information & Technology/Reference & User Services
